Good morning. My name is Kristine Hartvigsen. I just left you a voice mail message. I got your email off of the informational press release you put out a couple of days ago. I am writing an article for the November issue of Columbia Business Monthly magazine about small businesses impacted by the flooding and what resources or advice might be available to them. I specifically am looking for an official to quote in the article. My deadline is tomorrow. I would only need about 5 minutes on the phone with someone. Is it possible you can help me today?
