Master Wildlife Course Offered

Forestry is a major part of SC agriculture. Besides harvesting timber, there is another benefit to forest land, wildlife.

Wildlife management is part of the economic return to forest lands. A Master Wildlife short course will be offered for landowners in South Carolina. The topics to be discussed are: wildlife and wildlife management, providing habitat needs for wildlife, wildlife damage management, regulations and laws affecting land management, food plots for wildlife, whitetail deer management (also wild turkey), and a field trip. The class is limited to the first 30 people to register. The registration fee of $50 includes educational materials, refreshments and door prizes. The short course will be held April 23rd through May 7th on Mondays from 6:00-8:00 pm in the Plant and Animal Science Building, Room F-149, at Clemson University. To register please contact Brian Callahan, County Extension Agent-Pickens County at 864-878-1394 or by Fax 864-878-6712.

Winter Ag Study Tour Set For Texas

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture announces the 2002 Winter Ag Study Tour to Texas. The tour is confirmed pending adequate participants for January 20-29, 2002.

Many miles of diverse landscapes stretch across Texas. Agriculture and tourism are two assets of this southern state. Fertile lands are dotted with ranches and productive agricultural communities.

This ten-day tour will include all aspects of agriculture and agribusiness opportunities. A diverse itinerary ranging from food processing, livestock operations, field crops, fruits/vegetables, nurseries to specialty crops, this trip offers everyone a chance to view and learn from those on-site visits. University personnel and Department of Agriculture staff members from Texas will accompany our group to answer questions and relate information during the entire trip.

The Department has included a little bit of everything while keeping in mind what you feel the purpose of an agricultural tour should encompass; an opportunity to learn new and innovative production and marketing techniques suitable for your operation here in South Carolina. Along with the itinerary, I have enclosed a participation agreement.

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture encourages you and others to strongly consider your participation. Act early and reserve your space. Space is limited to the first 48 people. As always, spouses are welcome on the tour. The trip is tax deductible and open to all.

If you need additional information or plan to participate, please contact Roy Copelan, our tour manager, at 803-734-2200.

Plant And Flower Festivals Grow In SC

As spring is ushered in with warmer temperatures and bright sunny days, the South Carolina Department of Agriculture's Plant and Flower Festivals return. Beautiful, colorful blooms dot the State Farmers Markets along with lawn furniture, garden flags, arbors, fountains and many more items offered for sale to people from all over the United States.

Last year about 150,000 showed up to take part in the festivals which take place in Charleston, Columbia, Florence and Greenville. This year, Dick Felder and Mary Ridgeway, the Department's plant and flower festival organizers, hope to beat that record with even more participants.

The plant and flower festivals were established to promote the area state farmer's markets and the products available and to help greenhouse growers and nurserymen move their products. These festivals attract more people than would normally get to visit greenhouses and nurseries. The green industry is, in fact, the number two commodity in this state in cash receipts.

This year promises much more than the past as the festivals continually grow and improve. The Charleston Plant and Flower Festival will be held March 29 through April 1st at the Coastal Carolina Fairgrounds in Ladson. The Midlands Plant and Flower Festival will be held April 5th through the 8th at the Columbia State Farmer's Market. The Southern Plant and Flower Festival in Florence will be held April 19th through the 22nd at the Pee Dee State Farmers Market. And, rounding out this year's slate of festivals, the Piedmont Plant and Flower Festival at the Greenville State Farmers Market will be held May 3rd through the 6th.

Need a Mother's Day gift? Or, are you ready to spruce up your lawn and garden? Then the festivals are where you should go! Not only will the various vendors have even more tropicals, hardy perennials, shrubbery and water garden plants, but there will also be an abundance of decorative items as well! Birdhouses, flags, arbors, benches, and stone-carved items are among the many items that will be offered this year.

There will also be food available to tempt you while you shop! Various food items will be on hand including Mediterranean fare at the Midlands festival and a German bakery at every show. A working blacksmith will be on site to do custom work, and radio shows will be broadcasting from the festivals.

So, as you prepare to head out to the festivals and buy plants and flowers to beautify your yard, remember a few things. First, bring a pair of good walking shoes and wear comfortable clothes. Second, if you have one, bring your own little red wagon or cart if you plan on making multiple purchases and a vehicle big enough to transport all your great buys. And, most importantly, just enjoy yourself in the fresh air! I am sure you will see a lot of your friends there.
