

Dean Marachi

Subject:

Recall Paul Ryan

9 May 2016

Honorable Donald J. Trump

Senators: Mitch McConnell; Ted Cruz; Roger F. Wicker; Marco Rubio; Rand Paul

Representatives: Mark DeSaulnier; Paul Ryan; Kevin McCarthy;

Governors: Nikki Haley; Chris Christie; John Kasich; and, Chairman Reince Priebus

New York Times; Washington Post

Recall Paul Ryan

1. Paul Ryan's deceitful plan of establishing "voucher system" was the most vicious and ruthless plan to despair our Medicare recipients; effectively telling our elderly that when any of them reaches the end of his/her allotted voucher he/she should die. This likely was a major reason that Republican team of Romney/Ryan lost in 2012 elections. It was shameful that Ryan could not carry his own State of Wisconsin, and utterly appalling that he did not even carry his own District either.

2. Since last June he has been actively provoking notable Republicans to attack Donald Trump. First he used Nikki Haley, the governor of South Carolina to denounce Trump – Trump handily won that state. Then Ryan incited Marco Rubio attack Trump. Many of us had been hoping to see a Trump/Rubio ticket at the end. Rubio blindly followed the orders of "establishment", attacked Trump, and ended receiving a humiliating defeat in his own State.

3. Then Ryan mobilized the help of Mitt Romney to endorse and assist Ted Cruz. Although Cruz won Romney's State of Utah – but people got a closer look at the "characters" of Romney and Cruz. So Cruz lost the states he needed to stop Trump.

4. Paul Ryan is engrossed in his own misguided perception that Republican Party belongs to him and a handful of former incompetent presidents (Bush 41 and 43), senators (likes of Lindsey Graham), and pushover governors (Nikki Haley, Jeb Bush, etc.). He is blind to the fact that the Party belongs to the "People", and that he is deaf not hearing the loud roar that "People" have spoken.

5. Even though Ryan has been the real cause of fracture in the Republican Party, in his typical egotistical and sanctimonious approach, Ryan now makes it Trump's responsibility to "unite" the party. Again, he does not realize that "People" are fairly united, and they care less if a few of the "loser" members of the so-called establishment do not like to united with them (People).

Hence, therefore, we should recall and remove this cancerous nodule, Paul Ryan, from our Republican Party and political system by first dismissing him from position of speakership of the House of Representatives, and then recalling him from representing the good people of District 1 of the State of Wisconsin. Prompt execution of these tasks would go far towards the goal of "Make America Great Again".

N. Dean Marachi

N. Dean Marachi, PhD

dean@marachi.com

925 – 256-9850