LOCAL DISTILLERY BRINGS HOME A GOLD MEDAL IN TASTE FROM INTERNATIONAL SPIRITS COMPETITION

(Anderson, S.C. August 4, 2015) Palmetto Whiskey wins a gold medal for taste and a silver medal for packaging at the MicroLiquor Spirit Awards in Beverly Hills. Held in late July, small distilleries from around the world entered for a chance to compete on the international stage. The MicroLiquor Spirit Awards is the world's first competition dedicated to small and emerging spirits. For more information visit <http://www.microliquor.com/>.

"Palmetto Distillery is proud to represent South Carolina on the international stage. We created Palmetto Whiskey as a way to honor our states history of liquor production and that of the Boggs family. Everything from the bottle design to the flavor profile of the Whiskey was designed to pay honor to the Palmetto State. We couldn't be happier about the awards," said owners Trey & Bryan Boggs.

Palmetto Whiskey is matured in new French oak to achieve unparalleled taste and quality. A beautiful amber hue with notes of caramel and vanilla combined with a smooth finish define this traditional southern spirit. The bottle is crafted to represent those of the South Carolina Dispensary founded in 1893 and proofed to 89.3 (44.65%) it does justice to our State's proud history of spirit production.

Palmetto Distillery is a labor of love for Trey and Bryan Boggs. The two brothers and entrepreneurs from Anderson, SC are dedicated business men, southern to the bone and most importantly spirits enthusiasts. The brothers drew inspiration from their own heritage and that of South Carolina to create Palmetto Distillery which produces the State's First Legal Moonshine and continues to revolutionize the spirits industry. Palmetto Distillery produces 25,000 cases per year, distributing to 25 states and five countries.
