South Carolina State Parks

at 12:00:01 on 9/16/2014 UTC · 🌐

For 78 years, water from Carrick Creek has been held back to provide swimming, boating & fishing in Pinnacle Lake at Table Rock. You can thank the efforts of the Civilian Conservation Corps. The CCC stacked stone blocks to create the appearance of a natural waterfall. A scenic view of Table Rock Mountain can be seen just above the dam from the lakeside trail.

Spring Slagle The CCC continues to be my favorite park story. Going to talk to some third grade teachers about the CCC tomorrow. Don't forget the fantastic CCC exhibit at Lake Greenwood!
