FOOTWEAR SERVICES

In times of budgetary hardships we all look for ways to stretch every last dollar. When faced with losing an experienced examiner and having to hire or train someone new, there are some hard questions that you should be asking:

1. What are the chances of hiring an IAI Certified Footwear Examiner (CFWE)?

Currently there are only 105 CFWEs worldwide: 93 in the US, (78 in public Crime Labs, 15 in private practice) and 12 in other countries.

- 21 States do not have any CFWE's (0)
- 5 States only have 1 CFWE (5 public labs)
- 13 States have 2 CFWE's (26 total - 21 public labs / 5 private practice)
- 12 States have more than 2 CFWE's (62 total - 53 public labs / 9 private practice)

2. Does your caseload justify the costs associated with training someone to competency and ultimately certification?

Currently many labs are experiencing minimal footwear submissions. This is usually driven by crime scene personnel not knowing how to collect the evidence or because it takes too long to get an answer. If this is the case in your lab, be sure to visit our NATIONAL FOOTWEAR EXAMINER TRAINING ACADEMY webpage for Footwear evidence training.

Regardless of your personnel situation, or your budgetary condition, we can help.
