

From: Jim Conca <james@ufaventures.com>
To: Charles McCombiecharles.mccombie@arius-world.org
CC: Charles MunnsCHARLES.MUNNS@SRS.GOV
Date: 10/8/2013 12:39:06 PM
Subject: Forbes post on carbon tax

---

Hi folks,

Probably the most effective use of a carbon tax is for developing climate preparedness, i.e., strengthening those agencies and infrastructure that can best help us withstand, and recover from, the worst effects of a changing climate. Agencies such as FEMA, NOAA, NASA, CDC, NIH, EPA, FDA and the U.S. Coast Guard should have their budgets dramatically increased.

<http://www.forbes.com/sites/jamesconca/2013/10/08/carbon-taxes-should-go-to-fema-who-else/>

Regards,

Jim