Absolutely worth reaching out to DOT on this – the issue of visibility is true for several signs across the state. I think it is a result of all the rain and all the full foliage.

It does sound like the signage he is referring to is the logo signage – not positive, but sounds like it. I know that signage is managed under pretty restrictive legislated regulations – so not sure how much wiggly room they would really have.

Let me know if I can do anything.

I am on the road tomorrow – but reachable by cell!

Customer Safety/ Shoplifting

All locations Stricter shoplifting laws for the entire state. The higher end brands generate more sales but also more shoplifters. The laws in Georgia have higher consequences so shoplifters cross the state line to shoplift in South Carolina.

Tourism

All locations Continue to promote and support any tourism incentives and opportunities as our centers are located in South Carolina's highly desirable coastal communities.
