Looks good. Didn't really expect 103MB. Heh heh heh.

At somepoint, I'll send you my punchlist, but in the meantime, stay the course. It's mostly just things like running down some bullet-points at this point. Thanks.

It's in and so are the charts – I have cleanup/formatting to do. The document is VERY large and handles pretty well at the office but less well over the VPN – all the screen refreshing.

V23 is the current version and I am going to stay in it for about another hour and then I am going to walk away for a bit. If you want to take a look at the first few dozen sections, let me know if you don't like anything and I'll change that going into the rest of the book. I remember why this was such a laborious process last year, but I think it's going better and the charts should look better.

I just sent it to a few folks so that they can start reviewing/editing/learning what's in the budget. Since you've got the book right now, do you mind pasting it in? Thanks.
