Subject: Save the Date! Advocacy Starts at Home

Save November 12 for an evening celebrating the interdependence of families and older adults. Older adults play an essential role in our families. And families provide invaluable support to older adults – as caregivers, as companions, and as fiery advocates when we need them the most.

The evening will honor partners for their shared commitment to supporting low-income older adults and their families, and feature how you can make a difference in the lives of seniors struggling with the stresses of poverty.

Lynn Fryss Feinberg, from AARP's Public Policy Institute will receive the Paul Nathanson Distinguished Advocacy Award

Sponsorship opportunities and ticket information is available online.
We hope to see you there!
