Subject: Tell Lawmakers it's time to end senior poverty

---

ToNew York,

I wanted to make sure you saw the email I sent recently asking if you would sign the pledge to end senior poverty.

Over six million older Americans are living in poverty. One in five women over 65 living alone in America lives in poverty. Women like the ones in this video. Every day they must make terrible choices between food and medicine, visiting their doctors or keeping the lights on. As income inequality increases and 10,000 people turn 65 every day, the number of poor seniors is growing exponentially.

All older Americans deserve to be economically secure and to age with health and dignity.

Sign the pledge if you agree and join Justice in Aging and the Medicare Rights Center in working to promote justice in aging by ensuring every older American has economic security, access to affordable, quality health care, and a safe home.

Will you sign our pledge to tell policymakers that you won't stand for cuts that harm older Americans?
