Subject: Follow our new Twitter account for advocates

Dear Colleague:

Social Security's Office of External Affairs is now on Twitter! Follow @SSAOutreach to get the latest updates on our national and regional outreach efforts. We created this new Twitter account for our partners in the advocacy community and third parties who serve the public.

Follow @SSAOutreach to:

- Get the latest news on our events, policy updates, and Social Security services.
- Hear from Social Security's Acting Commissioner Carolyn Colvin and our senior executives about current topics.
- Get live tweets from important conferences and meetings, like our National Quarterly Advocates Conference Call coming up on June 17.
- Find out what's new at Social Security with communities your organization serves—such as American Indians and Alaska Natives, African Americans, Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, Hispanics, immigrants, people with disabilities, homeless populations, same-sex couples, veterans, women, and young people.
- Keep up with news for appointed representatives, financial planners, health and school professionals, human resource experts, Medicare outreach organizations, representative payees, faith-based leaders, and other third parties with an interest in our programs and services.
- Retweet items of value to your network and members.

We invite you to visit @SSAOutreach and hope you can be among our first followers.

Thank you for caring about the important work that we do. I'm looking forward to tweeting your way!

Sincerely,

J. Jioni Palmer
Associate Commissioner for External Affairs
