Just Right Episode 6 - Nexans High Voltage U.S.A.

South Carolina is proving to be Just Right for Nexans High Voltage USA! In 2012, the global leader in high-voltage cable manufacturing announced plans to locate its new Extra High Voltage facility in Berkeley County. Nexans' $85 million investment in South Carolina is expected to create 200 new jobs when the company opens later this year.

When choosing South Carolina to expand the company's North American presence, Cam Dowlat, Vice President and General Manager of Nexans High Voltage USA, commented, "When Nexans visited the South Carolina and the Charleston region, with its business-friendly environment, world-class port and burgeoning energy industry, the company liked what it saw." Dowlat further explained, "With all that is currently happening here, we are confident that many future opportunities exist for Nexans in South Carolina - and the North American markets as a whole."
