South Carolina State Parks plans to premiere a video.

at 17:38:49 on 2/02/2021 UTC · 🌐

On February 2-3, 1865, Sherman's troops encountered one of the Confederacy's last stands as they swept across the South at the Salkehatchie River at what now is the Battle of Rivers Bridge State Historic Site. Each year on these same dates, we remember those over 160 men who were killed, wounded, captured or missing from both the North and the South. Watch the illumination ceremony, as we bring it to you in video.

Rivers Bridge Illumination Ceremony

Stephen Schar I love this little park.

Karen Kinard Walsh Stephen Schar me too...I am close to it, and we usually have our Family Easter Egg Hunt there each year...I enjoy just walking and listening to the river flow...and I will go to my grave believing I heard a cannon there once while walking. ;)
