Let's see if the governor would like to do this. Good group.

Rob:

Here's a further thought. I'm teaching our Media & Politics course with 32 seniors this semester. So far, we have concentrated on the presidential primaries.

After spring break (week of March 6) we will turn our attention to local politics and the General Assembly session.

Might Governor Haley be interested in meeting with the students? The class is Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 am. We start early because they then produce a daily newscast and multimedia reports.

The students would be fascinated and it would give them a perspective on how the governor's office functions, especially in the process of shaping legislation and working with the legislature.

Thanks
Charles
