Subject: Update on Letterhead, Envelopes and Note Cards

Good Morning, Lily! Hope all is well with you! So below is the email I got from the printer just a few minutes ago. If this had not happened, we would have gotten the letterhead and envelopes today. Ugh, every time I try so hard to make things go smoothly, something happens. Just wanted to keep you updated. Sorry! I will keep you posted when I hear from them.

John,

We were starting on the Letterheads last night and my foil stamper had a paper jam, which bent a piece of metal and damaged a portion of the die. I've attached a picture, so you can see what it looks like. I'm getting in touch with our die manufacturer this morning to see how quickly he can get us a new die so we can get these finished up. As soon as I hear back from him, I will let you know when we expect the die in our hands. As soon as it's here, we will get all of this finished up and over to you ASAP. I apologize for the inconvenience and will get this moving as quickly as humanly possible.
