Description/Significant Features:

Building and machinery have been removed. All that is left is the stone foundation. It looks like the bank and dam are getting shored up. Access was limited because of the work being done along the river.

Alterations (include date(s), if known):

At the time of the field visit the Tyger River Foundation had disassembled and removed the mill from the property, and the foundation was being stabilized. The restoration project is estimated to take two years to complete and will fully restore the mill to be operational and open to the public.
