Updated with added language.

Which states currently participate in the Refugee Resettlement Program? Currently, 32 states participate directly in the RRP. However, refugees are resettled in all states except Wyoming and Montana, because no voluntary resettlement organizations are currently operating in either state.

Updated RRP backgrounder attached. Please make changes where you see necessary. The four questions I amended are:

Which states currently participate in the Refugee Resettlement Program? Currently, 32 states participate directly in the RRP. However, refugees are resettled in all states except Wyoming and Montana.

If a state chooses not to participate in the Refugee Resettlement Program, can the federal government locate refugees to that state without notification? Yes, the federal government can locate refugees without notifying the State. The federal government provides refugee notifications to the States that are participating in a RRP through their respective State Refugee Coordinator.

How many refugees have been located in South Carolina through these two voluntary resettlement organizations since October 2010?

Between October 2010 and November 2015, 791 refugees have been resettled in South Carolina.

As a result of the recent Syrian Crisis, have any Syrian refugees been resettled in South Carolina? Yes. In December 2015, two Syrian refugees were resettled in the Midlands through Lutheran Services Carolinas. Another Syrian family has been approved for resettlement in the state but we do not have an estimated date of arrival or planned location of placement.
