Agreed. But I can get on a call to hear him again if that is helpful.

I don't see a question from him. But either way you and Richele can call him. We don't really have anything new to say here.

Thank you for sending this to us, Haley.

As we discussed last week however, the Board and organization created by Act 432 is still in existence. This entity is still a political subdivision of the State. Therefore the reasoning for signing off on the transfer of the bonds does not hold water. They could have stayed right where they were without tax consequences.
