South Carolina State Parks

at 12:49:36 on 3/26/2018 UTC · 🌐

Not Alaska.....but these are whale sightings from the Myrtle Beach State Park pier! Yesterday, park rangers watched two humpback 🐳 breaching and slapping their pectorals and flukes for over 1.5 hours. They observed over 100 breaches! Enjoy these 📷 by Scott Hartley.

Sandy Ingram Wouldn't that be awesome

at 1:29:54 on 3/27/2018 UTC

Linda Ponn We went whale watching off the coast of Washington state. We were so lucky a mother and calf came right up to our boat and let us pet them. A once in a lifetime thrill! She would see us trying to reach out so she went down and came up closer so we could pet her. She was probably twice the size of our boat.

Colleen Brown Have seen the Humpbacks many places but Bermuda just was added for next year. I have been passionate about whales forever. Had a chance in Maui to see a Mom feed her calf.

They are graceful giants who continue to amaze me. Can't wait to see them again.
