Updates

Orchid

Eric Diering and Jeff Schoen said that employees would be reporting to work on December 9th and that the plant would be opening mid January with 30 employees. Council expressed their appreciation for the Company hiring local contractors and employing people within the County.

Hazard Mitigation Plan

Amanda Sievers said the County's Hazard Mitigation Plan would be expiring December 22nd and that renewal of the Plan was required every 5 years for the County to be eligible to receive pre-disaster grant funding. She explained that the Plan focused on the history of natural disasters which have occurred in the County and enabled the County to prepare for potential natural disasters by awarding grant money to purchase items in advance. Without the plan, the County would be ineligible to receive any pre-disaster grant funding. Council confirmed with Ms. Sievers that the Plan did not impose anything compulsorily on the County or its citizens financially or otherwise. Ms. Sievers said the sole purpose of the Plan was to make pre-disaster grant funding available should the County or its citizens choose to apply for it and was completely voluntary.

Flood Damage Prevention

Daryl Walker said the flood ordinance placed requirements on any new construction within areas of the County which were determined to be in flood zone areas. The intent of the construction requirements was to protect potential buyers and their neighbors by preventing new structures from being built below flood zone levels. In SC, if the flood zones maps were changed at any future point, each County would be given the opportunity to decide whether or not to re-adopt the ordinance. Adoption of the ordinance required those purchasing a home be notified if the property were in a flood zone area and would allow participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) allowing homeowners living in flood zone areas the ability to purchase flood insurance. Homeowners with federally backed mortgages living in flood zone areas are required to carry flood insurance and non-participation by the County would result in those homeowners having their loans revoked by the lending agencies and the possibility of new loans not being issued, as private lending agencies also required flood insurance for properties in flood zone areas. Additionally, homeowners with only a portion of their property in a flood zone area would have the opportunity to contact the NFIP to have their property re-evaluated if the structure on the property was above the flood plain level. The NFIP did not require homeowners without a mortgage or home buyers paying with cash, to carry flood insurance. Failure to adopt the ordinance would also prevent the NFIP from giving any financial assistance to the County or its citizens in the event of a flood.

Sheriff Carroll said the Sheriff's Department was awarded a $16,000 grant for a drug detection dog and for training a handler.

Judicial

Deloris Charlton, Administrator of the Detention Center, addressed the recent changes made to the replacement jail's architectural plans due to the bid coming in higher than expected. These changes involved removing a wing of the detention center and adding a butler building for inmates awaiting sentencing. Ms. Charlton said that while the changes may save the County money initially, they would result in costing additional money both in staffing and future construction costs as the revised plans were inadequate for the long term. She requested Council's approval to proceed with the original plans which included the wing that had been removed. Council discussed the present conditions of the jail, the likelihood of construction costs increasing and concurred on the need to move forward with the original plans. There was discussion as to whether the County being required to fund the additional portion would cause an increase of the millage rate. Vice Chairman Sloan and Administrator Williams said if the County received a 30 year loan for the additional amount, they believed an increase of the millage rate would not be necessary. Councilman Buckmon moved to proceed with the original jail plans provided that the contractor honor his original contracted cost. Councilman Houston seconded the motion. A roll call vote was requested.
