1. Looking to develop an energy policy in the next 3 weeks or so, with idea being to roll it out at that event at Pastides' house next month (which is when, again?).
2. Open to ideas - would like to meet with a few folks during this period to discuss options (meetings would likely be with me instead of her - let's not get anyone's hopes up - heh heh heh).
3. She's unlikely to be for anything that costs the taxpayers much/anything and/or which has a nanny state feel to it.
4. Example of the kind of thing that would be good would be streamlining the process for state agencies/subdivisions to do Guaranteed Energy Savings Agreements, to make it easier to reduce emissions, save money, put people to work, etc.
