Former Secret Service Agent commented on Hillary Clinton's 1996 mission to Bosnia, saying that a 2008 speech in which Clinton said she was under sniper fire was "a flat-out lie."

Gary Byrne said that anybody who worked around the Clintons in the Secret Service who saw that speech would "start laughing their faces off because they knew that was a flat-out lie."

Video from the landing at Tuzla Air Force Base showed they were not being fired at; on the contrary, Clinton was embraced and handed a poem by a young girl.

After Clinton was confronted about the discrepancy in April 2008, she said she "misspoke."

Byrne said the only thing that the military had the Clintons do was sit on their flak vest as they got closer to the landing zone, which was a standard procedure.

Former Secret Service Agent Gary Byrne said that after an explosive argument in 1995 between Bill and Hillary Clinton that left a vase smashed and Bill with a black eye, officers became concerned for the president's personal safety.

Byrne said on Hannity that the agents discussed what they should do in the event of a domestic dispute.

The author of the shocking tell-all Crisis of Character that agents would exchange information with each other if the president was with a mistress to give each other a "heads up."

"We were concerned. I mean, what if she did catch the president in a compromising situation?"

He said there was a plan in place to warn the president before that could happen.
