Good afternoon,

I hope you're all having a great Thursday. Adrienne is out of the office at BMW's Upstate facility today, so I wanted to reach out to update you on a news release that we may be issuing tomorrow afternoon.

We were planning to distribute a release regarding Mitsubishi Polyester Film's $100 million Upstate expansion next week. However, we found out today that the company would like to go ahead and make their announcement tomorrow (Friday) afternoon in advance of a major industry trade show taking place on Sunday. There are no new jobs associated with this expansion. The $100 million investment will facilitate equipment upgrades at the Greer, S.C. plant.

Right now, we're aiming for a 2pm eastern distribution. I'll work with Brian on a Governor's quote and confirm with him as soon as the company has finalized their plans and an exact release time.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thanks so much,
Jeremy

Good afternoon,

I hope all is well. Adrienne is out of the office for the remainder of the afternoon, but we wanted to provide you an update to the release schedule below.

DC Machine is still in the process of obtaining the required internal approvals regarding their press release. Thus, we won't be issuing that one today. As of right now, we're targeting an 11 a.m. eastern distribution tomorrow, if that works for you all. I'll confirm with Brian in the morning as soon as the company approves our attached final draft.

- Tues., Sept. 22: DC Machine, LLC (Project Bullet – Dorchester County) - $5,300,000; 17 new jobs. (expansion)
- Wed., Sept. 23: Cold Mountain Material Corporation (Project Wilbur – Greenville County) - $26,200,000; 109 new jobs. (new)

Please let us know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thanks,
Jeremy
