South Carolina State Parks

Winter is a great time of year to hear Great horned owls at Sesquicentennial State Park! They usually begin calling around dusk on most evenings at the park. If you want to try and hear one, your best bet is to come out between 4 and 5 pm and walk the 3.5-mile loop trail, just remember the park closes at 6 pm this time of year so make sure you start early enough! Don't know what a great horned owl sounds like? Listen to this! <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wsTKkLxtGx4>
