Subject: Resources: National School Choice Week Begins Today

Good Morning -

National School Choice Week is officially underway! It's an opportunity to celebrate the importance of effective education options for all children -- including traditional public schools, public charter schools, magnet schools, private schools, online learning and homeschooling.

This morning, students wearing NSCW yellow scarves will ring the opening bell of the New York Stock Exchange. This event comes on the heels of a 3,000-person kickoff celebration in Houston on Saturday, which brought together Sen. Ted Cruz and Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee in an impressive demonstration of unity.

National School Choice Week 2014 will feature nearly 6,000 independently-planned events. The celebration is entirely positive, nonpartisan and nonpolitical...and focused on individual families in local communities across the country.

I hope you'll get involved on social media, via blog posts, and through press releases and op-eds or letters to the editor.

-- Here is a brief set of facts about National School Choice Week.

-- You can find out about specific school choice policies in an individual state here, or discover events in your area here.

-- If you'd like to Tweet about NSCW and your work related to education this week, our Twitter handle is @schoolchoicewk, and the designated hashtag is #scw.

-- Here are some photos you can use (no need for attribution) in blog posts or online postings.

-- If you'd like to change your Facebook or Twitter avatar to recognize the Week, you can download that here.

Thank you in advance -- and happy National School Choice Week!

Best,
Andrew Campanella
