Good policy depends on understanding cause and effect. The battle flag did not cause the shooting at the Charleston church. The flag is an important part of the heritage of many people. The Constitution did not say whether states could leave the union, and many believed that this choice, not mentioned in the Constitution, belonged to the states and the people. When the people of the South tried to exercise this choice, the remaining states sent armies into the South to return these states by force. The Constitutional questions are only academic today, but for the soldiers of the southern states, the armies marching on their homes were real. They fought gallantly to defend their homes, not slavery. The flag under which they served should remain in place to honor their courage.
