Yes, Holly they do and are required. We have some reports but the orgs have a total of six months from the time of the award to return official reports to us. So the first round of grant spending reports are not due to CCCF until June.

I can share with you what reports we have tomorrow when I return to the office.

The grantees provide an estimated number of homes they plan to address with the funding provided. However that number is slightly fluid as they may find more damage than expected once they begin working on a home therefore costing more money. That is why we are careful to say the "estimated" number of homes that will receive repairs with One SC dollars.

Make sense?

Do we have the number of homes that have been completed/repared so far with One SC Funds? Do we have the number of homes still to be repaired with the funds? Do the grantees give updates to you all?
