Ok.

We will make sure others are set to speak, too.

Below is the final, confirmed list of attendees. (Correct me if we're missing someone, Holly.)

The governor will speak at the event - discuss the significance of it, and open it up for questions from the press.

Mr. Hughes, from CCCF, will be on hand to answer questions about process-y stuff from the press regarding how the fund will work

Everyone else will be able take questions from press as they are asked, and I'd imagine that, particularly with some of the sports stars, press will stick around to get one-on-one sound from them.

Is there anyone else y'all want to speak after the governor speaks? As in do y'all want the governor to kick it to anyone before opening it up to the press?
