Support South Carolina Community Loan Fund on Lowcountry Giving Day

The South Carolina Community Loan Fund (SCCLF) is a non-profit community development financial institution (CDFI) that provides financing for community development projects in underserved and disadvantaged communities throughout South Carolina. We finance projects that provide affordable housing, create access to food and essential services, increase the quality and availability of neighborhood facilities, create employment opportunities, attract additional investment, and strengthen the social and economic fabric of the community.

We started on this journey ten years ago by making our first loan to the United Methodist Relief Center on December 15, 2005. Ten years, 275 loans, and $22.8 million in community investments later, we are making progress towards our vision of ensuring equitable access to capital to create thriving, prosperous, economically resilient communities for all South Carolinians.

and UMRC homebuyer, Michael Richardson.*

On May 5th, several thousand donors will make gifts to hundreds of non-profits in the Lowcountry. As a friend of the South Carolina Community Loan Fund, how can you show your support that day?

GIVE: Go to www.lowcountrygivingday.org on May 5th and search for South Carolina Community Loan Fund (we're listed under the Community Improvement category).

BE SEEN: Post your gift to our Facebook page and invite your friends to "Support SC Community Loan Fund as they #LifttheLowcountry."

INSPIRE OTHERS: Tweet to your followers to "Invest in @SCCLF to #LifttheLowcountry."

HAVE FUN!
