Meg Mirshak

Freezing temperatures in late March ruined the early South Carolina peach harvest, leaving consumers waiting until July for summertime's tasty fruit. South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley toured the damage Monday at J.W. Yonce and Sons Inc. peach orchards, a leading producer in the state's prime peach growing region.

Note: "You're looking behind me at what looks like a beautiful orchard, but if you look close to the trees, there are no peaches on them. They are bare," Haley said.

Post and Courier: Canadian biopharmaceutical company to bring 60 jobs to North Charleston

Peter Hamby

Vice President Joe Biden will headline a fundraiser for the South Carolina Democratic Party on Friday, a source familiar with the event told CNN. Biden, who has kept his name in the 2016 mix even as Hillary Clinton consumes much of the presidential oxygen, will be in the early primary state to deliver the University of South Carolina commencement address on May 9.

The State: Pat McKinney debuts Lt. Gov. ad

<http://www.thestate.com/2014/05/05/3428484/pat-mckinney-debuts-lt-gov-ad.html?sp=/99/132/312/169/>

Andrew Shain

Pat McKinney, one of four Republicans vying for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor, debuted his first TV ad on Monday. The ad introducing the Charleston developer and political newcomer to the voters will air over two weeks on broadcast and cable stations, his campaign said. The ad buy is about $200,000.

The State: Bakari Sellers has pair of fundraisers next week in DC, NY

<http://www.thestate.com/2014/05/05/3428081/bakari-sellers-has-pair-of-fundraisers.html#storylink=cpy>

Andrew Shain

S.C. Rep. Bakari Sellers, a Democrat running for lieutenant governor, told supporters Monday that he has a pair of out-of-state fundraisers next week. Sellers will visit Washington, D.C., for a May 14 event at the home of John Jameson, founder of campaign phone strategy firm Winning Connections.

Post and Courier: Lee Bright goes after Lindsey Graham in TV ad

<http://politics.postandcourier.com/2014/05/05/lee-bright-goes-after-lindsey-graham-in-tv-ad/>

Schuyler Kropf

U.S. Senate candidate Lee Bright is out with a campaign ad focusing on what he said are “numerous occasions where Lindsey Graham has conspired with liberal Democrats – and sometimes the Republican establishment – to subvert the will of the people and the Bill of Rights.”

The State: Sally Atwater debuts SC schools chief ad

<http://www.thestate.com/2014/05/05/3427946/sally-atwater-debuts-sc-schools.html#storylink=cpy>

Andrew Shain

Sally Atwater, the widow of famed GOP strategist Lee Atwater, started airing her first statewide television ad Monday in her bid for S.C. Superintendent of Education. Atwater is among eight Republicans vying in the June 10 primary for the seat being vacated by Republican Mick Zais, who decided not to seek a second term.

Associated Press: Loftis opponent: TV ads show political hypocrisy

Seanna Adcox

South Carolina Treasurer Curtis Loftis' primary opponent says the first-term Republican is a hypocrite for appearing in the same kind of TV ads he hammered his predecessor on in 2010. Brian Adams questions how Loftis can rationalize appearing in Future Scholar ads after pledging he would never do such a thing.

Post and Courier: Voter registration deadline is Saturday

<http://www.postandcourier.com/article/20140505/PC16/140509666/1177/voter-registration-deadline-is-saturday>

The State Election Commission is reminding voters they must be registered by this Saturday, May 10, to vote in the June 10 Democrat and Republican primaries. Among the issues you should settle, if applicable, is registering for the first time, updating your address if you've moved, name changes or other relevant information.
