so when the 12 days of deals came out in November there was no restriction to the first 10 families. So people who planned to drive to columbia today to get the pass now were met with the info they the deal has been restricted to the first 10 families. Why would you change the rules after publishing the list?

The 12 days of deals are made by another section. The limit was inadvertently left off and I was notified on 11/29. We updated the website on that date and added the limit. There was a disclaimer on the website to check back daily as limits may change and promo codes may be added.

Please let us know if you were able to go back and get the deal or if you would like the alternative option. Thanks.
