Subject: FW: The real Unemployment threat

---

Cheryl & Ted,

See the below comment, I think the iron is hot.....

A 2013 “study by Oxford University researchers Carl Benedikt Frey and Michael A. Osborne ... [predicted] that nearly half of American jobs are at ‘high risk’ of being taken over by robots or automated processes (M2M) in the next decade or two,” National Journal reported in March.

I think with all the good news out about our unemployment, we need to seize the moment to challenge the South Carolina Workforce. Workforce development and education....

"While we are extremely excited about the 6.4% rate and its continue decline, the road ahead is daunting; we must double our efforts to improve our skill base.....etc....

The legacy of tomorrow will be forged by our actions today. No time for patting ourselves on the back.

Best,
Mikee
