Nola and I touched base earlier today. This event is still a good three months from now, but here are some additional details that she had gathered since our last communication.

- Their conference is November 2 - 3 (they would prefer that he speak on the 2nd if possible - either morning or after lunch; the 3rd is more of a focus on security, but he is welcome either day) at the DoubleTree Hotel in Columbia.
- This will not be a keynote opportunity. There are several guest speakers throughout the day.
- The topic can be one of his choice, but they would like to hear a bit about the Office on Aging. He is also welcome to split his time with a staff member if he so desires. Our entire time slot could be from 20 - 30 minutes (they're leaving a lot of these details up to him).
- The audience will consist of about 125-150 board members / executive-types from various co-ops, Comporium, etc. (a full list of their member companies is available here: <http://sctba.org/membercompanies.php>)
- Danny, we have a staff meeting tomorrow, and I will ask the division managers for any input they might have re: talking points.

Hank

Hank, I think that we'd like to do this, but can we find out a little more about how LGOA would relate to this audience? Do we offer programs or services in this space? Do they have a specific subject in mind? Please find out a little more, and if it makes sense, then I think it would be a good event.
