Dominion Carolina Gas Transmission Prepared to Respond to Hurricane Matthew

Columbia, SC. – Dominion Carolina Gas Transmission (DCGT) is closely tracking the path of Hurricane Matthew and preparing to respond to impacts from this severe storm. HurricaneMatthew could cause flooding, high winds, falling trees and widespread damage.

DCGT began preparing earlier this week: making storm staffing plans, staging equipment and increasing the supplies needed for repairs. As DCGT prepares for what thisstorm may bring our way, we urge the public to do the same.

Safety is Dominion's first priority. Once the storm passes, DCGT plans to access facilities by helicopter and rights of way. DCGT crews will need to access remote areasof the state and will be traveling across South Carolina highways, interstates and local roads.

Dominion Carolina Gas Transmission is a subsidiary of Dominion (NYSE: D), one of the nation's largest producers and transporters of energy, with a portfolio of approximately 25,700 megawattsof generation, 14,400 miles of natural gas transmission, gathering and storage pipeline, and 6,500 miles of electric transmission lines. Dominion operates one of the nation's largest natural gas storage systems with 1 trillion cubic feet of storage capacityand serves more than 6 million utility and retail energy customers.
