South Carolina State Parks

at 12:15:00 on 5/22/2018 UTC

Alligators are one of the biggest attractions at Huntington Beach State Park, where you can often see them as you drive over the causeway, as you enter the park. For the best viewing experience, however, join one of the bi-weekly guided alligator walks, offered every Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a.m. by the Friends of Huntington Beach State Park. No reservations needed: just meet near the entrance of Atalaya. Thanks to our friend, Phil Lanoue for the photo!

Linda Daugherty One of my very favorite parks! We camped there for many years. The wildlife is abundant.

Mike Hodge Sr. They have a nice dock on a saltwater inlet with no fishing 😞 wasted my money going there what's the point of having a dock you can't fish from in a public park Twila Ehrfeld It is an observation deck, not a fishing dock. It is also not a public park, it is a State Park. All parks come with rules. This one only allows ocean fishing. There are to many alligators to fish and it is also a game reserve. No hunting or fishing in the park.

Mike Hodge Sr. Twila Ehrfeld like I said stupid rule
