Dear Mr. Bryant,

It seems hard to believe, but 2018 is coming quickly to a close. The University of South Carolina is preparing for an exciting but daunting transition as our beloved longtime president, Dr. Harris Pastides, looks forward to his retirement this summer. While that is months away, plans are already underway to show Dr. Pastides and his wife, Patricia, how much they have meant to Carolina and to our community.

Few universities have had the privilege of a president serving for more than 10 years. Thanks to Dr. Pastides' leadership and vision, Carolina has never been stronger. Along with our president, we would like to thank all members of the Carolina community who have helped guide our university on this incredible 10-year journey. Without your investment, all that we accomplished together would simply not have been possible.

When you donate to Carolina this holiday season, you show your dedication to our university's bright future and our state's continued improvement. By making your gift today, your impact can extend into the new year and help us transition to an exciting new chapter in Carolina's extensive legacy.

Thank you for your generosity to the University of South Carolina, and happy holidays!

Sincerely,
Office of Annual Giving

P.S. Don't forget to make your year-end gift before December 31!
