Rob,

Attached is a two page document I used in my budget process this year to set forth my observations of the Executive Branch after 3.5 years. I put this on my web and spoke to a couple of reporters about it, but not much interest. I think this document says a lot if a reporter took the time to digest it. I have plenty of interesting examples to back up each issue, but I have to be careful in setting forth issues/problems without coming across as gratuitously flaunting an agency's weakness in the public domain. I think agencies trust the IG in looking to improve with constructive criticism and letting the public know through reports & not through sound bites which tend to distort/exaggerate/oversimplify problems.

Thanks

Rob,

All I had to do was tweak the documents I gave the Senate Judiciary Committee on May 24th. I had a one page overview statement & nine pages of higher level data of mission, strategies, and results/impact. I got more if you need. I can also re-shape what I have sent you to meet your needs.

The IG is likely the most transparent agency in state government, where all my work is on my webpage, with the exception of misconduct and pending fraud cases.

I am not sweating the Senate issue. I inspect others & welcome the scrutiny. I think my body of work with the staff I have speaks for itself. If it gets political, then I will rely on you & the Governor's advice.

Thanks for your help.
