Dear Governor Haley,

The m855 ammo has been used for target and sport shooting for years without any problems. The fact that the BATF just now wants to call it armor piercing is one of the silliest things I have heard of in a while. The m855 ammo is not classified armor piercing by anyone other than the BATF. The United States military 5.56 armor piercing rounds have a painted black tip to signify that they are armor piercing. Whereas the m855 is a green tip. If the United States military doesn't consider it armor piercing why would the BATF ?

Sincerely,
James Fouche
