Good Morning,

Below is a great article sent from Mackenzie Chastain, Intake Intensive Service Provider, Spartanburg County Dept. Juvenile Justice. The GoUpstate article was printed over the weekend. We are all stronger working together with our partners.

Thank you again for helping tell our DJJ Story!

Very Respectfully,

Patrick Montgomery

Mr. Montgomery ,

I hope all is well. I wanted to provide you the link to the newspaper article that was in the Herald Journal in Spartanburg on 7/30/16. This is a great example that there are great things going on with DJJ and that change is possible. The article is titled " An alternative to trouble". The article discusses the Spartanburg City Police Department and DJJ staff working together in the Youth Empowerment Program. The Youth Empowerment Program is a program that redirects at risk youth into positive outlets so they do not become involved with DJJ and are able to see positive role models. Please let me know if you need any additional information. I thought this would be a great article to share with other DJJ staff members.
