The good news is that many small and mid-sized agencies only have an officer-involved shooting every few years – the bad news is that these agencies only have an officer-involved shooting every few years.

When they do occur, you can be left scrambling. What needs to happen, and when? Who should investigate? How can you protect your officer but also ensure proper accountability?

Join Lexipol co-founder Bruce Praet in this free special event to understand better what happens following an OIS, what officers and agencies should expect - and how to prepare.
