Dear Friends:

There is an old and famous saying that truth is the first casualty of war. Sadly, so too can this often be said of political campaigns. My nephew Adam has faced one of the most malicious and false campaigns I have witnessed in my lifetime. The list is too long to even detail in this email but suffice it to say, they are false and represent the new age of attack campaigns that many of us Nevadans are absolutely sick and tired of. No one who is willing to put their name and family on the line should face the kind of false smears the Millers have waged above and below ground this year.

The Nevada I have known for six decades and campaigned in with my father will reject this kind of campaign.

We support Adam because there are few candidates in the country better suited to carry on Paul Laxalt's legacy of public service than his grandson. My sister Michelle raised Adam as a single mom. I watched closely the unbelievable team they made for the first decades of his life. Because of Chelle's hard work, Adam had the groundwork laid to be the honorable man he is today.

Adam's record of achievement is already remarkable. He graduated with honors from Georgetown University and then its law school. He went on to serve honorably as an officer in the US Navy, as a Navy and Federal Prosecutor, and he has worked closely with some of the most dedicated public servants in our nation. During his time in the Navy, he volunteered to deploy to Iraq during one of the most violent times in that long and difficult war. There, he held the deeply serious responsibility of seeing that insurgents and terrorists that threatened American lives were put away behind bars.

When Adam returned to the US, he was nominated to be a Professor of Law and to teach the many lessons he learned as a JAG Officer to America's future leaders at the US Naval Academy. Following his military service, Adam returned to Nevada with his wife Jaime to raise their family. Adam took a job in the private sector, representing some of the most significant businesses and employers in our state.

This is a man that is ready to lead, because he understands that holding elected office is first and foremost about service. He is part of the new generation of leadership our state and country need desperately right now. The Laxalt family appreciates, believes in and supports the extraordinary father, husband, and veteran running to be our next Attorney General. His name is Adam Laxalt.

Respectfully,

John Paul Laxalt

Son of former United States Senator and Nevada Governor Paul Laxalt and Adam's Uncle
