

Pasture and Range Risk Management Meeting to Be Held

The Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 outlined as a top priority the implementation of a pilot project for a pasture and range risk management program. USDA's Risk Management Agency (RMA) was required to create a risk management program for pasture and rangeland. During the fall last year listening sessions were held throughout the United States to gather information on the perils and risk management needs of pasture and rangeland producers.

Using the input gathered from these sessions, AgriLogic has come up with risk management concepts for covering forage loss. The researchers at RMA and AgriLogic believe it is imperative to gather more input from producers on these proposed program concepts, so that they can be designed specifically for the needs of producers of pastures and rangeland.

This is your opportunity to let your voice be heard, and outcomes of this project may result in government programs designed to help producers in times of need.

The next meeting will be held on March 25 at 10 a.m. at the Spartanburg County Public Library in Spartanburg. A meal will be provided. For more information contact Dr. Mike Fanning of AgriLogic, Inc., at 1-877-245-6442 or email him at mfanning@agrillogic.com.

Entire State of South Carolina Eligible for USDA Emergency Farm Loans

Kenneth Rentiers, Jr., State Executive Director of the USDA Farm Service Agency, recently announced that the entire State of South Carolina is eligible for USDA emergency farm loans due to losses caused by drought that occurred last year.

"This assistance will help farmers in South Carolina recover from drought loss," said USDA Secretary Ann M. Veneman.

The entire State of South Carolina was named as a primary disaster area on March 1, 2002.

This designation makes all qualified farm operators in primary and contiguous disaster counties eligible for low-interest EM loans from the Farm Service Agency, provided eligibility requirements are met. Farmers in eligible counties have eight months from the date of this declaration to apply for the loans to help cover part of their actual losses. FSA will consider each loan application on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available and repayment ability.

FSA has a variety of programs available, in addition to the emergency loan program, to help eligible farmers recover from adversity. Interested farmers may contact their local FSA offices for further information on eligibility requirements and application procedures.

Additional information is also available online at: <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/disaster/assistance1.htm>.

Binnarr Elected SCFAA President

Mitch Binnarr of Dow AgroSciences was recently elected President of the South Carolina Fertilizer and Agrichemicals Association (SCFAA) for 2002.

Binnarr received his undergraduate degree from the College of Charleston and his masters degree from Clemson University. He began working with Dow Chemicals Ag Products Division in 1982, served in Louisiana and Indiana until he returned to his home state of South Carolina in 1986. He is currently a Senior Sales Specialist with Dow AgroSciences. Binnarr is also a registered Certified Crop Advisor (CCA).

"Many of the SCFAA members are also CCAs," Binnarr said. CCAs provide advice on the proper use of fertilizers and other agricultural chemicals and best management practices for crop production. In fact, there are over 100 CCAs like Binnarr in South Carolina who provide these services to farmers.

The SCFAA is a voluntary organization which focuses on several key objectives. Proper stewardship of pesticides, plant foods, and other related agricultural products is at the core of its mission statement. The SCFAA, established in 1988 with the merger of the Pesticide Association of South Carolina and the South Carolina Plant Food Educational Society, is committed to furthering the interests of agriculture and the consuming public in South Carolina.

SCFAA members include fertilizer, chemical, and seed company representatives and others involved in the production, processing, and marketing of crop production inputs. Members of the SCFAA work closely with regulatory officials and legislators to make sure that the products they produce, process, and sell to farmers meet or exceed the highest quality standards possible.

Festivals in Bloom

Once again spring ushers in the birth of new life as flowers awaken to warmer temperatures and sunnier days. The SC Department of Agriculture's Plant and Flower Festivals also herald the arrival of spring as hundreds of vendors bring forth their bountiful, colorful fare to people from all over the state and country.

Last year's festivals proved successful, bringing in over 150,000 people and generating at least 3 million dollars in revenue for SC nurserymen and greenhouse growers. I met and spoke with several attendees of the Midlands festival last year that were eager to praise the growing success of the festival. Sammie Haithcock, who is from Columbia, was found admiring a row of perennials. She was at the festival for the second day in a row and had filled her Chevy Blazer to the brim the day before with all sorts of plants, flowers and concrete decorations. In fact, she had to have some of her items delivered to her home because she couldn't fit any more in her vehicle! She said that the great selection and quality is what brought her back for the third year in a row.

A Myrtle Beach resident, Patty Sharpe, was a vendor of air plants such as bromeliads. She also celebrated her third year at the festival last year. The plants she sold do not require soil, are from South America, and flourish with just a light misting twice a week. She too was excited about the continued prosperity of the festivals and was doing great business when I stopped to speak to her.

I also met two lovely ladies from Columbia and Lexington, Carol Eddins and Elaine Price, who are members of the Master Gardeners. Carol Eddins was also in her third year of attendance at the festival and brought along Elaine Price for her first visit. The pair had two wagons laden with gorgeous blooms and were praising the number of unusual plants they found. In addition, they appreciated the larger and better selection that was offered at the festival.

The plant and flower festivals were established to promote the area state farmers markets and the products available and to help greenhouse growers and nurserymen market their products. These festivals attract more people than would normally get to visit greenhouses and nurseries.

This year’s festivals kick off in Florence from April 4th-7th at the Pee Dee State Farmers Market, 2513 W. Lucas Street. The Charleston Spring Plant and Flower Festival will be held April 11th-14th at the Exchange Park in Ladson, the Midlands Plant and Flower Festival will be held April 25th-28th at the Columbia State Farmers Market on Bluff Road in Columbia, and the Piedmont Festival is May 2nd-5th at the Greenville State Farmers Market in Greenville at 1354 Rutherford Road.

I urge each of you to get out and enjoy the spring weather and support our local markets by shopping for plants, flowers, shrubbery, garden accessories and various other specialty items. Remember to wear comfortable walking shoes, and, if you have one, bring your own wagon or cart for large purchases!

Binnarr

Binnarr said, "The SCF AA supports education and training, research, improved crop protection production practices, regulatory initiatives, pesticide product packaging advances, and progressive farm policies. These initiatives combine to yield significant agricultural and environmental-friendly contributions to the state."

Binnarr and his wife, Ann, live in Florence and are members of Highland Park UMC. Their daughter, Nan, is a sophomore at Columbia College.
