Re: We are a homeschooling family who has been studying government and my girls (and I!!) would love to meet Governor Haley! My children are Carson winters, age 10; Logan winters, age 8, Ryan, age 4 (who may or may not come depending on the date we choose) and Reid, the baby at 19 months. They have discussed the three branches of government; federal, state, and local governments; what types of laws each level sees to; and the concept of checks and balances. They've also had a tour of the federal courthouse downtown and talked with one of the federal magistrates. Coming to the Statehouse and meeting the Governor would make the state level of their study complete. They are from Lexington and pass the Statehouse regularly, and the girls have many (personal) questions about Governor Haley—does she drive to work or have a driver? How old are her children?
