Chennai Rains 2015

Chennai, a city of 4.6 million people on India's southeast coast, is reeling from some of the heaviest and deadliest rains in decades. Since October, flooding killed at least 272 people in the region, according to the National Disaster Response Force.

Emergency workers, including the Indian armed forces, rescued more than 120,000 people according to K.S. Kandaswamy, Deputy Commissioner of Chennai Corporation, in a CNN interview. With some respite in rainfall, relief efforts are now in full-swing to bring a sense of normalcy back to Chennai after such a tragic calamity.
