I called Robert to let him know that we were working as quickly as we can but he would not get the records before New Year's Day. He had many questions, and we spoke for a few minutes. After he pressed me for a timeline, I told him sometime next month – he was not pleased but seemed to be satisfied with that as an answer.

I am still waiting on records from a few staff members and will follow up with them again by email.

Ah ok, thanks Rebecca. If it does end up getting finished this week, please let me know. Otherwise, I'm assuming we'll have to settle for next week? I'd like to get you all your check before the New Year's Day holiday.

Thanks again,
Robert

Mr. Faturechi,

In response to your voicemail today, I wanted to let you know that we are still printing records to process your request, and therefore, it is not likely that the production will be completed this week. As soon as we finish compiling the records, we will let you know.

Happy Holidays,

Rebecca
