Subject: Apply Today! Executive Programs for State and Local Leaders

As a seasoned public official working in state or local government, you are faced with many complex challenges such as increased public scrutiny, fewer resources, and tighter restraints. Effectively managing these issues requires continual development of new skills and new learning. Harvard Kennedy School executive programs offer you a unique opportunity for professional enrichment so you can make an even greater difference.

Here, you and a diverse group of peers will be immersed in an intense, interactive learning environment led by renowned Harvard faculty and expert practitioners. You'll generate ideas to solve the most pressing problems of your constituents and your community. Examine new models of collaborative governance. And build a lasting network of new colleagues and friends. It's an experience that can't be duplicated.
