Analysis

GOP Push To 'Repeal' Chevron Deference May Come Up Short

Congressional Republicans eager to stop judges from deferring to the EPA and other agencies in legal challenges to those agencies' rules are touting a proposed bill they say would end the long-established practice of "Chevron deference," but experts say the legislation won't actually eliminate courts' reliance on agency expertise.

House Passes Bill To Put Rules To Up-Or-Down Vote

Major administrative rulemakings and rulings could have to go to Congress for an approval vote if a bill the House passed Thursday becomes law.

House GOP Bill To Nix Obamacare Embraces Med Mal Reform

A bill unveiled by conservative House Republicans on Wednesday that aims to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act contains three medical malpractice provisions, including a proposed requirement that would allow certain cases to be more easily removed to federal court.

Analysis

Antitrust Exemption Repeal Resurfaces Amid ACA Battle

Congressional Republicans looking to replace the Affordable Care Act are once again eyeing a plan to repeal antitrust immunity for health insurers, but experts say a new wave of enforcement would be unlikely even if the long-thwarted proposal passes on the back of a broader health care overhaul.

Analysis

States' Minimum Wage Hikes Roll On Without Federal Increase

When the Arizona Supreme Court last week allowed the state's new $10 minimum wage to take effect in the midst of a pending legal challenge, it cleared the way for the state to join 18 others and numerous municipalities in welcoming higher wage floors on Jan. 1, a trend management-side attorneys say is likely to continue in the absence of a federal wage hike. Here, Law360 takes stock of where minimum wages stand nationwide as 2017 begins.

Analysis

GOP's Higher Tax Deductions May Be Bad For Homeowners

A key platform of the House Republicans' tax reform plan to almost double tax breaks for individuals and families could actually end up driving down housing prices by making tax incentives less effective for homebuyers, according to one of the nation's largest lobby groups.

24 AGs Back Pruitt For Head Of EPA

Two dozen Republican state attorneys general signed a letter Wednesday expressing their "unqualified support" for Scott Pruitt, President-elect Donald Trump's nominee to lead the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, in advance of his confirmation hearing.

GOP Targets Stream Protection Rule Over Coal Concerns

Congressional Republicans aim to clamp down on the Interior Department's stream protection rule as part of a series of votes to nullify rules passed in the last six months of President Barack Obama's term, according to House Speaker Paul Ryan, who said Thursday the rule could potentially impact thousands of jobs involved in coal production.

Pa. GOP Senators Can't Enter Del. River Fracking Suit

A federal judge on Thursday denied a request from three Republican Pennsylvania state senators to intervene in a lawsuit brought by a landowner challenging the Delaware River Basin Commission's fracking moratorium, ruling that they lacked sufficient interest in the outcome of the case.

Minn. Says ND Can't Reap $1.3M In Emission Law Appeal Fees

North Dakota and a coalition of coal and energy companies aren't entitled to $1.3 million in attorneys' fees awarded by a lower court for prevailing in the appeal of a decision invalidating Minnesota's restrictions on out-of-state coal-fired power plants, Minnesota told the Eighth Circuit on Wednesday.

The U.K. Competition and Markets Authority revealed three project director appointments Thursday, including an internal promotion and the hire of a Reckitt Benckiser Group PLC compliance professional.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Looking Ahead: Employer-Provided Health Care Under Trump

Because the Republicans do not have a filibuster-proof majority in the Senate, a complete repeal of the Affordable Care Act is unlikely. However, Republicans in Congress can pass a bill unwinding major portions of the ACA that apply to group health plans and sponsoring employers, and the Trump administration can make substantial changes to the ACA rules for group health plans unilaterally, says Eric Schillinger of Trucker Huss APC.

The Path Forward For Industrial Hemp In Indian Country

Historically, the legality of growing industrial hemp has been complicated by the commodity's classification as a Schedule 1 drug. As the movement for national legalization marches on, tribes interested in growing hemp should take steps to ensure that they do not lose ground relative to non-Indian farmers, says Michael Reif of Robins Kaplan LLP.

New Year, New Immigration Laws For Calif. Employers

No one can deny that 2017 will be a year of change, but when it comes to laws relating to immigration and employment, change may look different in California compared to the rest of the nation, says Gregory Wald of Squire Patton Boggs LLP.
