

From: Taillon, Jeff

To: Taillon, Jeff <JeffTaillon@gov.sc.gov>

Date: 6/25/2013 10:51:53 AM

Subject: S.C. Front Pages - Tuesday, June 25, 2013

---

MIDLANDS' BEST PREP TEAMS

DOZEN DYNASTIES

Twelve days, twelve dynasties. Today, Chapin boys tennis. B1

GREENER PASTURES

Connecticut gun maker celebrates move to S.C., brings 100 jobs to Aynor, B6

THE BUDGET

Haley signs $1 billion roads bill

Governor to issue vetoes Tuesday; kindergarten, arts in crosshairs?

By ADAM BEAM
abeam@thestate.com

After Gov. Nikki Haley signed into law Monday a bill pledging to spend close to $1 billion over the next 10 years to repair S.C. roads, state Department of Transportation Secretary Robert St. Onge said what a lot of people were thinking.

"You can count on the fact that it's not enough," he said.

Transportation officials say the state needs $29 billion in new spending over the next 20 years to meet its road maintenance needs.

The bill Haley signed into law, which includes spending half of the state's income from auto sales taxes on road repairs, would generate close to $1 billion in new spending. But Haley, the first-term

Republican governor getting ready to launch her reelection campaign, said the news is not what South Carolina does not have but what it does have.

"What you saw today is a commitment to infrastructure. That's something we haven't seen in years," Haley said. "Let's celebrate that. Why can't we just be happy?"

The new spending on roads was a key part of a budget compromise that lawmakers approved last week. Haley declined to say Monday if she would veto the other part of that compromise: an expansion of the state's 4-year-old kindergarten program for low-income students, pushed by her chief political rival, state Sen. Vincent Sheheen, D-Kershaw.

Haley has until midnight Tuesday to issue vetoes. "To be continued, as Mark Sanford always said," she said Monday.

The bill Haley signed into law, accompanied by other provisions in the state's $22.7 billion budget, would give the Transporta-

SEE ROADS PAGE A8

The State

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2013 | THESTATE.COM

BUILDING OUR CITY

Bull Street's $70 million future? Reactions mixed on agreement

Backers call it a game changer; skeptics want more details

By CLIF LeBLANC
clleblanc@thestate.com

The long-awaited agreement that spells out Columbia's public investment in the proposed Bull Street neighborhood carries a price tag that likely will reach $70 million, but it includes pledges by the developers to produce what they propose.

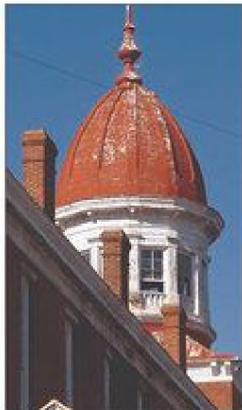

City Council will vote during the next two weeks on the 130-plus-page document and on an initial commitment of at least $31.25 million in public money during a 20-year construction schedule.

First-blush reaction from some community leaders to Monday's release of the development agreement for the massive, mixed-use project is favorable. But already, doubts and objections are surfacing.

"It's a bold move forward," said Mayor Steve Benjamin, who has been involved in face-to-face negotiations with Greenville developer Bob

SEE PROJECT PAGE A4

FILE PHOTOGRAPHY/THE STATE

BY THE NUMBERS

$31.25 million

Commitment to install water, sewer, roads, etc.

$20 million

Estimated cost of two parking garages

$20 million

Estimated cost of a baseball stadium

THE LEGION OF HONOR

The Greenville News

A GANNETT COMPANY

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2013
GREENVILLEONLINE.COM

TUITION GOING UP

It will cost more for students to attend Clemson, 4A

FINAL EDITION

More road funds linked to fixes

Haley wants to see how money spent before backing more

By Tim Smith
Staff writer
tsmith@greenvilleonline.com

COLUMBIA — Gov. Nikki Haley says she wants to see how officials handle this year's road and bridge money before deciding whether to support a push for more.

Haley made her comments after signing a transportation funding bill that could raise more than $700 million for roads and bridges.

The governor said she wants to see if the State Transportation Infrastructure Bank, which will issue bonds for the biggest amount of the new money, follows the state's priority system, known as Act 114, before pushing for any more infrastructure funding.

"I think what we need to do first of all is make sure we stay within Act 114," she said. "It was a great bill that says all of the roads have to be done by priority. So that's something we're going to watch to make sure that happens."

Haley, who said the recur-

Haley

ring dollars in the legislation will add up to $1 billion over 10 years, added that such an amount "is a lot of money."

"I've always said a great economy is in a state that has a lot of orange cones everywhere," she said.

"I want to see some orange cones. I want to see some things happening. And I want to make sure that the industries that are here and the ones that continue to come here see our commitment to business and see our commitment to jobs."

A task force appointed by the state Department of Transportation last year estimated the state needs $29 billion over 20 years to bring roads and bridges

See ROADS, Page 12A

Other lists used in review, chief says

It wasn't only Tea Party groups

By Deirdre Shesgreen
Greenville Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Internal Revenue Service agents in Cincinnati used additional "inappropriate" lists to flag certain tax-exempt applications for extra scrutiny, IRS Principal Deputy Commissioner Danny Werfel said Monday.

The IRS has acknowledged that the Cincinnati field office, which reviews all tax-exempt applications, used a "be on the lookout" list — or BOLO list — that included words such as "tea party" and "patriot" to determine which groups should be subject to heightened scrutiny.

But an internal IRS probe has turned up similar lists, which were in use by tax-exempt screeners when he took over as IRS chief at the end of May, Werfel said Monday. He declined to say what criteria or terms were on the additional lists, although he suggested they cast a wide net.

"There were a series of these types of lists being used in this part of the IRS as part of their review of tax-exempt applications," Werfel said. "We believe there continued to be inappropriate or questionable criteria on these BOLO lists."

An internal IRS document

See IRS, Page 12A

INSIDE

DUKE: UPGRADES COST $3.3B    $17.83 INCREASE PER 1000KW HOURS    600 SIGNATURES OF PROTEST

Barbara Keeton addresses the Public Service Commission during a hearing regarding a proposed Duke Energy rate increase. (H&B)

DUKE RATE PLAN RILES RESIDENTS

If approved, it would be third increase since 2010

nesses, most of them in the Upstate. Duke says it has spent $3.3 billion for capital improvements to its electricity system in the Carolinas since

The Beaufort Gazette

TUESDAY, June 25, 2013

beaufortgazette.com

Established in 1897 50 cents

Widow files lawsuit against suspect

Tracey Piotrowski claims the negligence of her relatives and the plantation caused her husband's death on Nov. 25, 2010.

By ALLISON STICE
astice@islandpacket.com
843-706-8138

The widow of a man fatally shot during a Thanksgiving family gathering at a Bray's Island Plantation home more than two years ago is suing the relative charged with his death, the suspect's wife and the gated community in Sheldon.

In the lawsuit, Florida resident Tracey Piotrowski, whose husband James Piotrowski reportedly was shot by both his uncle and a Bray's Island security guard on Nov. 25, 2010, claims the negligence of her relatives and the plantation caused her husband's death.

Richard Santee, the uncle of the victim, was charged with attempted murder in March 2011, but his case has not yet been scheduled for trial. The 14th Judicial Circuit Solicitor's Office has said it plans to try the case this year, after prosecuting several other murders. He and his wife, Carolyn Santee, have since moved to North Carolina, a relocation allowed under his bond conditions.

The civil lawsuit was filed June 14, and Santee has not yet filed a response.

Tracey Piotrowski alleges the couple should have secured their multiple firearms in a manner that did not endanger guests.

Instead, the lawsuit states a drunken Richard Santee had easy access to weapons and "recklessly" shot James Piotrowski during an argument.

According to a Beaufort County Sheriff's Office investigation, Richard Santee placed the gun on the

Please see LAWSUIT on 7A

IN BEAUFORT

Suspect sought for attempted murder SURRENDERS

SARAH WELLYER • Staff photo

Members of the Beaufort Police Department take Timothy R. Sponar into custody after he turned himself in Monday afternoon. A warrant was issued for his arrest for attempted murder after Sponar allegedly shot at a car in downtown Beaufort early Friday morning.

By ERIN MOODY

emoody@beaufortgazette.com • 843-706-8184

A Mount Pleasant man accused of shooting at a car in downtown Beaufort early Friday turned himself in to city of Beaufort Police on Monday and was charged with attempted murder.

Timothy R. Sponar, 59, suspected of shooting at a car at about midnight near the intersection of West and Port Republic streets, was escorted out of police headquarters in custody at about 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Sponar was taken to the Beaufort County Detention Center for booking, where he was being held without bond for prosecution Monday night.

Attorney Harvey McCormick III of Beaufort said Sponar turned himself in and has "nothing to hide." McCormick declined further comment.

Timothy Sponar

Please see SUSPECT on 7A

TRAYVON MARTIN CASE

Defendant: Killer or victim?

The two sides of the court painted dueling portraits of George Zimmerman during opening arguments on Monday.

By KYLE HIGHTOWER
and MIKE SCHNEIDER
The Associated Press

SANFORD, Fla. — George Zimmerman was fed up with "punks" getting away with crime and shot 17-year-old Trayvon Martin "because he wanted to," not because he had to, prosecutors argued Monday, while the neighborhood watch volunteer's attorney said the killing was self-defense against a young man who was slamming Zimmerman's head against the pavement.

The prosecution began opening statements in the long-awaited murder trial with shocking language, repeating obscenities Zimmerman uttered while talking to a police dispatcher moments before the deadly confrontation.

The defense opened with a knock-knock joke about the difficulty of picking a jury for a case that stirred nationwide debate over racial profiling, vigilantism and Florida's expansive laws on the use of deadly force.

"Knock, knock," said defense attorney Don West.

"Who is there?"

"George Zimmerman."

"George Zimmerman who?"

"All right, good. You're on the jury." Zimmerman, 29, could get life in prison if convicted of second-degree murder for gunning down Martin on Feb. 26, 2012, as the unarmed black teenager, wearing a hoodie on a dark, rainy night, walked from a convenience store through the gated townhouse community where he was staying.

The case took on racial dimensions after Martin's family claimed that Zim-

Zimmerman

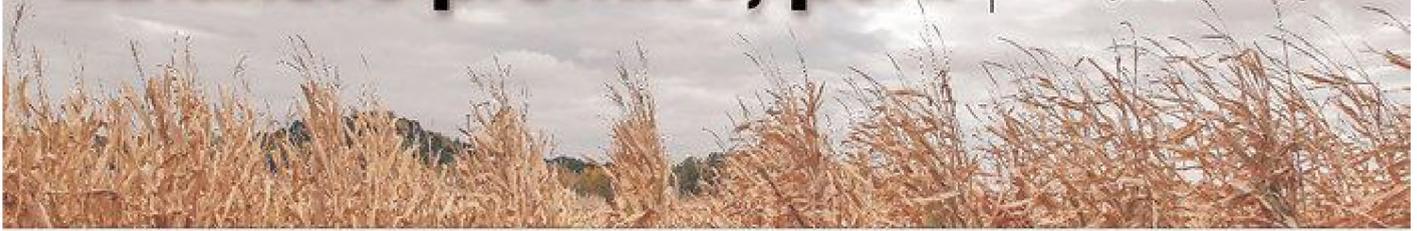

Martin

Please see CASE on 7A

Ethanol's promise, peril

E15, a new blend of fuel, fires up a controversy D1

Herald-Journal

TUESDAY
JUNE 25, 2013
SPARTANBURG, S.C.
50 cents

www.GoUpstate.com

HJ
IN A HURRY
5 Things to read today

Updating outreach

Missionaries of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will do less door-to-door proselytizing, instead using the Internet to recruit new church members. The strategy shift reflects the growing importance of social media, church leaders say. PAGE A3

Sorry for movie

Actor Jim Carrey is distancing himself from his own movie, saying the Sandy Hook Elementary massacre changed his perspective on the violence in his upcoming action comedy. PAGE A2

Agency swamped

Social Security is approving disability benefits at strikingly high rates for people whose claims were rejected by field offices or state agencies, House investigators say. Claims have increased by 25 percent since 2007, pushing the fund that supports the disability program to the brink. PAGE A6

$1B for roads

Gov. Nikki Haley signs a bill to raise up to $1 billion over the next 10 years to improve South Carolina's roads and bridges. PAGE C1

SC losing ground

South Carolina ranks better than just five states when it comes to the overall well-being of its children. The state slipped two spots from last year's report. PAGE C3

CITY COUNCIL

$49 million budget passes with worker raises, tax hike

By LYNNE P. SHACKLEFORD
lynne.shackelford@shj.com

Spartanburg City Council unanimously passed on final reading the 2013-14 budget. It includes a slight tax increase and marginal employee pay increases.

Council approved a budget that includes a $33.6 million general fund operating budget with no discussion. The entire budget, including enterprise and special revenue funds, is $49 million and goes into effect July 1.

Councilwoman Cate Ryba, executive director of Hub-Bub, abstained from the vote because the organization receives Hospitality Tax funds included in the budget.

Employees will receive a 1 percent pay raise, but half of that will be absorbed by a state-mandated increase in employee

◆ SEE CITY PAGE A5

ALEX C. HICKS JR./ALEX.HICKS@SHJ.COM

Developer Pace Burt gave City Council an overview of his renovation plans for the Schuyler building. Council agreed to designate the property for a Special Assessment for Rehabilitated Historic Property for at least five years.

Sports by the biteful

JOHN SYRUM/JOHN.SYRUM@SHJ.COM

US asks for help to snag fugitive

White House wants allies, rivals to deny asylum to Snowden

By LARA JAKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. grasped for help Monday from both adversaries and uneasy allies in an effort to catch fugitive National Security Agency leaker Edward Snowden. The White House demanded that he be denied asylum, blasted China for letting him go and urged Russia to “do the right thing” and send him back to America to face espionage charges.

Snowden

Snowden was believed to be in Russia, where he fled Sunday after weeks of hiding out in Hong Kong following his disclosure of the broad scope of two highly classified counterterrorism surveillance programs to two newspapers. The programs collect vast amounts of Americans' phone records and worldwide online data in the name of national security.

Snowden had flown from Hong Kong to Russia, and was expected to fly early Monday to Havana, from where he would continue on to Ecuador, where he has applied for asylum. But he didn't get on that plane, and his exact whereabouts were unclear.

The founder of WikiLeaks, the secret-spilling organization that has embraced Snowden, said the American was only passing through Russia on his way to an unnamed destination to avoid the reach of U.S. authorities. Julian Assange said Snowden had applied for asylum in Ecuador, Iceland and possibly other countries.

Despite its diplomatic tough talk, the U.S. faces considerable difficulty in securing cooperation on Snowden from nations with whom it has chilly relations.

The White House said Hong Kong's refusal to detain Snowden had “unquestionably” hurt relations between the United States

raycin Dillard, 5, enjoys eating a

Kids' ability to succeed

South Carolina ranks 45th in well-being of its children, 2A

INDEX-JOURNAL

VOL. 95, NO. 54

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2013

2 SECTIONS, 18 PAGES

DAILY 75¢, SUNDAY $1.50

www.indexjournal.com

ALSO INSIDE: High court sends back Texas race-based plan, 5A ♦ Post 20 Braves battle Post 52, 1B

Mayor candidate arrested in 2007

Charges against Saluda hopeful were never prosecuted

By FRANK BUMB
fbumb@indexjournal.com

Saluda mayoral candidate Richard Logan, one of three candidates in today's election, was arrested April 13, 2007, on charges of voyeurism, aggravated voyeurism, criminal sexual exploitation of a minor in the first degree, possession with intent to distribute marijuana within proximity of a school/ park and possession with intent to distribute marijuana, according to documents obtained Monday from the Town of Saluda. The majority of those charges, however, were never prosecuted by the 11th Circuit Solicitor's Office.

Logan asserted his desire not to comment. "Call my lawyer," Logan said. "I didn't do anything then. It wasn't anything but trumped up charges." Logan named Jerry M. Screen as his attorney. Calls to Screen were not returned as of press time.

Arrest

The arrest stemmed from a complaint made by a then-17-year-old female April 2, 2007. According to an April 11, 2007, See CHARGES, page 4A

RICHARD LOGAN

AN INDEX-JOURNAL OCCASIONAL SERIES

THE WORK GOES ON

After first year, Gale reflects and moves on to next

By MICHELLE LAXER
mlaxer@indexjournal.com

Not even the end of a school year brings solace to a school principal. Kindergarten graduation, fifth-grade send-off, a faculty vs. student kickball game, year-end luncheons and teacher check-outs kept Eleanor S. Rice Elementary School's first-year principal

See WORK, page 5A

Julian Gale, principal at Pinecrest Elementary School, works with a student.

MATT WALSH | INDEX JOURNAL

Editor's note: Today marks the fourth and final article of an occasional series on first-year Rice Elementary School principal Julian Gale. Throughout the school year, Index-Journal staff writer Michelle Laxer writes about Gale's journey as a first-year administrator in Greenwood District 50.

Three candidates vie for open seats

McCormick residents will see three on ballot for school board election

By MICHELLE LAXER
mlaxer@indexjournal.com

According to previous board policy, when a vacated seat became agreed on how board members chose nominees for the seat. Mann Mann's nominations were moot. Chiles is a lifelong resident of

GREENWOOD COUNTY

Will the 2014 budget pass?

Council to consider third reading at meeting tonight

By CHRIS TRAINOR
ctrainor@indexjournal.com

After months of wrangling and hours upon hours of discussion, Greenwood County Council could pass the county's 2014 fiscal year operations budget tonight.

Council will host a called meeting at 5:30 p.m. today at Greenwood County Library. As part of that called meeting, Council will consider third reading on the county's operating and capital budgets for fiscal year 2014, and it will also consider third reading on an ordinance to levy tax to support the public school districts in Greenwood County for fiscal year 2014.

As currently proposed, the county's general fund budget is balanced at $19.26 million, with county millage staying steady at 74.3 mills. The budget does not call for a tax increase.

While the budget is balanced as proposed, it has not arrived at tonight's third reading without

TOBY CHAPPELL

MARK ALLISON

ROBBIE TEMPLETON

THE ISLAND PACKET

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2013

islandpacket.com

SERVING THE LOWCOUNTRY • 50¢

88°  74°

Another summer day brings chance of storms. 4B

Affirmative action in college admissions survives Supreme Court review 5A

$35 for 10 Zumba classes at Z4 Fitness Studio ($70 value)
dealsaver.com/HiltonHead

Baer to resign from council at end of July

Announcement follows a 6-5 vote approving Beaufort County's $99.35 million budget

By CASEY CONLEY
cconley@islandpacket.com
843-706-8147

Beaufort County Councilman Steve Baer announced Monday that he will resign at the end of July.

Baer, who represents a Hilton Head Island district, has shown mounting frustration with county priorities and decision making over the past six months, occasionally butting heads with administrators and fellow council members on budgeting practices, library hours and airports, among other issues.

"Of late, I have become increasingly frustrated with a system that has become less analytic and less transparent," he said. "I believe there is not much more I can help the council accomplish."

The announcement, which followed a 6-5 vote approving the $99.35 million, 2013-14 county budget, stunned fellow council members. The budget takes effect July 1.

Councilman Rick Caporale said he was not prepared for the news and will be sorry to see Baer step down.

"I am flabbergasted," he said. "We certainly never discussed it, and if we had, I would have done everything in my power to discourage him."

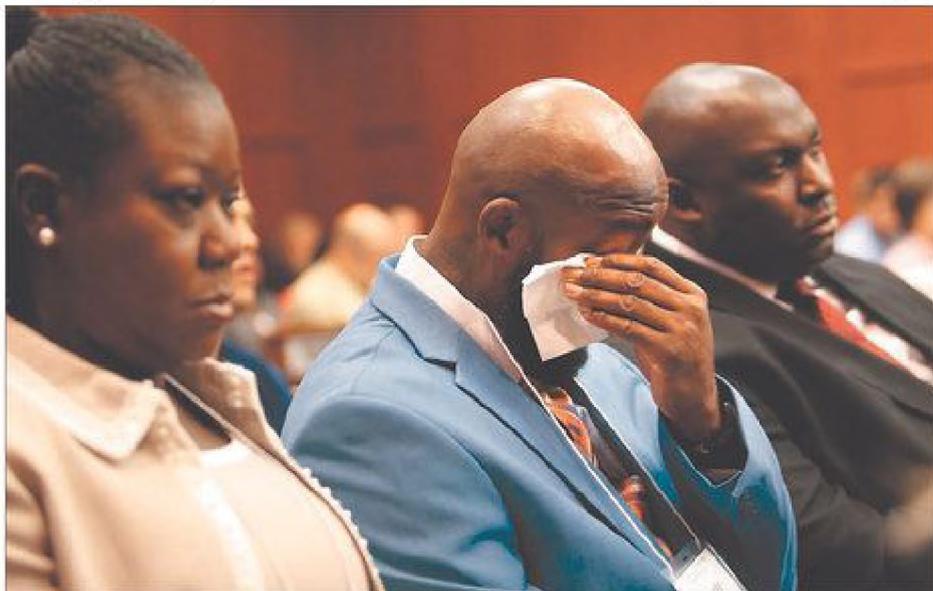

Councilman William McBride, who has served more than 30 years on the council, said he can't recall a member suddenly resigning during open session.

Baer

Please see RESIGN on 7A

VIGILANTE OR VICTIM?

Attorneys for and against Zimmerman make their cases as trial in Trayvon Martin case opens

JOE BURBANK • Orlando Sentinel

Tracy Martin, the father of Trayvon Martin, cries as he listens to the description of his son's death during opening statements in the George Zimmerman trial Monday in Seminole circuit court in Sanford, Fla. Seated with him are Sybrina Fulton, Trayvon's mother, left, and Daryl Parks, a family attorney.

By MIKE SCHNEIDER and KYLE HIGHTOWER
The Associated Press

SANFORD, Fla. — George Zimmerman was fed up with "punks" getting away with crime and shot 17-year-old Trayvon Martin "because he wanted to," not because he had to, prosecutors argued Monday, while the neighborhood watch volunteer's attorney said the killing was self-defense against a young man who was slamming Zimmerman's head against the pavement.

The prosecution began opening statements in the long-awaited murder trial with shocking language, repeating obscenities Zimmerman uttered while talking to a police dispatcher moments before the deadly confrontation.

TRIAL SUMMARY

• THE CASE: George Zimmerman, 29, is charged with second-degree murder in the shooting death of Trayvon Martin, 17.

• THE PROSECUTION: John Guy, a prosecutor, portrayed Zimmerman, the neighborhood watch captain, as a vigilante. Zimmerman didn't have to shoot Martin, Guy said. "He shot him for the worst of all reasons: because he wanted to."

• THE DEFENSE: Lawyers

Martin at age 14

Zimmerman

for Zimmerman say Martin sucker-punched Zimmerman and then pounded the neighborhood watch volunteer's head against the concrete sidewalk, and that's when Zimmerman opened fire.

AT BRAY'S ISLAND PLANTATION

Widow files suit against suspect

Tracey Piotrowski claims the negligence of her relatives and the plantation caused the death of her husband in 2010.

By ALLISON STICE
astice@islandpacket.com
843-706-8138

The widow of a man fatally shot during a Thanksgiving family gathering at a Bray's Island Plantation home more than two years ago is suing the relative charged with his death, the suspect's wife and the gated community in Sheldon.

In the lawsuit, Florida resident Tracey Piotrowski, whose husband James Piotrowski reportedly was shot by both his uncle and a Bray's Island security guard on Nov. 25, 2010, claims the negligence of her relatives and the plantation caused her husband's death.

Richard Santee, the uncle of the victim, was charged with attempted murder in March 2011, but his case has not yet been scheduled for trial. The 14th Judicial Circuit Solicitor's Office has said it plans to try the case this year, after prosecuting several other murders. He and his wife, Carolyn Santee, have since moved to North Carolina, a relocation allowed under his bond conditions.

The civil lawsuit was filed June 14, and Santee has not yet filed a response.

Tracey Piotrowski alleges the couple should have secured their multiple firearms in a manner that did not endanger guests.

Instead, the lawsuit states a drunken Richard Santee had easy access to

Please see TRIAL on 7A

Please see SUIT on 7A

KIDS@PLAY Youths learn finer points of baseball at camp. Page 10B

Morning News

TUESDAY JUNE 25, 2013

TODAY'S WEATHER

Partly cloudy with a thunderstorm, high 88, low 71
DETAILS 2A

www.scnw.com

The Voice of the Pee Dee

75 cents

Performing Arts Center sees profit for second year

Successful centerpiece of downtown revitalization sees slight dip in revenue but remains self-sufficient

BY SYDNEY PATTERSON
spatterson@florencenews.com
Morning News

FLORENCE — For the second year since its grand opening in 2011, the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center has finished with its finances securely in the black.

"The bottom line is that for the second year in our existence, we've also ended the year in a profit mode," said Francis Marion University President Fred Carter.

The PAC turned a profit of $50,018 for the 2012-13 season, a slight dip from the first year's profit of $54,702. The center's total income — $311,380 — is down from $388,922 last year, but so are its total expenses — $261,362 from last year's $334,220.

Carter said 24,701 people attended events at the center this year, which is also slightly below the 25,000 that attended last

See PAC, Page 4A

Laura Sims, director of the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, and FMU President Fred Carter speak at a press conference for the Francis Marion Performing Arts Center. The press conference covered the center's financial standing at the end of its second year. "The bottom line is that for the second year in our existence, we've also ended the year in a profit mode," Carter said.

PHOTOS BY SYDNEY PATTERSON/MORNING NEWS

EXCELLENCE IN ACTION

PHOTOS BY REBECCA J. DUCKER/MORNING NEWS

Makayla Jackson heads to home plate during a game of kickball during camp. For 10 years, the Florence Police Department has been hosting a summer camp for children, previously known as the Florence Police Department Basketball Camp. This year, the camp has been renamed the Physical Fitness Excellence Program. "We thought we could get more kids involved if we offered more than basketball," Lt. George Mack said. The camp, which runs for eight weeks over the summer, will feature a different sport each week along with classroom life-skills lessons.

Officer Shelly Fennell runs with campers Kasi Dozier (left) and Briana Washington during lap time at camp. Mornings at the camp start with breakfast and reading time followed by classroom lessons and different types of sports each week.

Makayla Jackson and Marquis Mack cheer as they take the field during a game of kickball.

Poverty biggest issue for SC kids

Pee Dee, like state, nation, shows modest signs of improvement for child well-being, but economy lags

BY ELLEN MEDER
Morning News
emed@florencenews.com

South Carolina ranks at the bottom of the nation, above only five states, when it comes to the overall well-being of children, according to a national report released Monday, and many of the troubling trends hold true in the Pee Dee.

According to the annual Kids Counts survey from the Annie E. Casey Foundation, the state slipped two spots from last year to 45th overall in children's ability to succeed.

Though the calculations include a variety of factors, the biggest are economics, education and health. Though

See KIDS, Page 8A

Police seek suspects in Sunday shooting

BY TRACI BRIDGES
Morning News
tbridges@florencenews.com

FLORENCE — A Florence man was arrested Monday and charged with accessory after the fact to murder in connection with a weekend shooting.

Dewayne Lamar Burr of 442 E. Old Marion Hwy. turned himself into police Monday, Florence Police Maj. Carlos Raines said.

Darlington school board chooses new superintendent

BY BOB SLOAN
Hartsville Messenger
rsloan@hartsvillemessenger.com

DARLINGTON — During a visit in late May in which he special-called meeting Monday night to extend an invitation to the 32-year veteran of education to become the superintendent for the district.

Moments after the vote, Board Chairman Warren Jeffords called Ingram at home with the news, Jeffords then for the job," Jeffords said. "He comes to us from a district that faces very similar challenges and has done a tremendous job. He will fit in very well in Darlington County."

SCSU FOOTBALL TEAM BEGINS SUMMER WORKOUTS. B1

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2013

The Times and Democrat

75 CENTS • ORANGEBURG, SOUTH CAROLINA | TheTandD.com | 2 SECTIONS, 16 PAGES • VOL. 132 • NO. 176

Kidnappers or hunters?

Shannon E. Samuel, 35, of North East, Md. is charged with two counts of kidnapping following a May 21 incident.

Woman flown to hospital after stabbing

Suspect located after search of neighborhood

By RICHARD WALKER
T&D Staff Writer

An Orangeburg woman has been charged with attempted murder after authorities say she stabbed an acquaintance over accusations of a sexual tryst with her boyfriend.

Authorities said Terri Lynn Maynard, 42, of 5096 Coburg Lane, has been charged in connection with an early morning stabbing of a Willie Road woman.

The woman who was stabbed was taken by medical helicopter to a Columbia hospital around 12:10 a.m. Monday.

TheTandD.com
Read the incident report at TheTandD.com/topnews

The 42-year-old woman suffered a stab wound to the abdomen. When authorities found her, she "had what appeared to be a steak knife, with a silver in color handle, imbedded to its hilt, in her lower torso," according to the report.

Emergency Medical Services stabilized the woman at the scene, leaving the knife in place before moving her to a landing zone. She was then flown to Palmetto Health Richland.

Her condition is unknown. Deputies arriving at the Willie Road residence found the woman standing in her yard. She said that just before midnight, a female came to her home accusing her of having a sexual relationship with the female's boyfriend, according to an Orangeburg County Sheriff's Office incident report.

According to the woman who was stabbed, the female yelled an obscenity at her and said, "You know that you are messing with my man. Now you're going to pay."

She said the woman then pulled out the steak knife and stabbed her in the abdomen before fleeing across her yard. The woman said she knew her assailant but didn't know where he lived. She did know she lives somewhere nearby.

Authorities brought out K-9 units, which tracked in the direction the female was said to have fled while more deputies arrived.

Orangeburg County Sheriff's tracking units trailed the suspect to a Haskell Lane home nearby where she tried to hide from authorities, they said. The K-9 teams detained her inside the residence until investigators could arrive.

Contact the writer: rwalker@timesanddemocrat.com or 803-533-5310.

Corey W. Newkirk, 35, of Hendrum, Minn., center, is represented at his preliminary hearing by attorneys Coray Williams, left, and Virgin Johnson, right. See footage from Monday's preliminary hearing at TheTandD.com/gallery.

Lawyers: Suspects had right to take wanted man

By RICHARD WALKER
T&D Staff Writer

A preliminary hearing for two out-of-state men claiming to be bounty hunters and charged with kidnapping hit a snag when defense attorneys argued the men had the authority to take a South Carolina man from his home.

Orangeburg County Magistrate Rob Clariday ordered the hearing to be rescheduled to give the court time to ponder a stack of case law introduced at Monday's hearing.

"At this point, there's a good bit of material I need to read," he said.

No date has been set for a new hearing, but it could be held within the next 10 days.

Corey W. Newkirk, 35, of Hendrum, Minn., and Shannon E. Samuel, 35, of North East, Md. were both charged on May 21 with two counts of kidnapping after authorities claim a man and his 7-year-old son were forcefully taken from their Orangeburg County residence.

The men claim to be bounty hunters who were taking David Smith of Eastaville to face a drunk driving charge and what prosecutors called "minor drug charges" in Florida.

Prosecutors say the case comes down to whether or not someone can enter the Palmetto State and snatch someone from their home, saying the out-of-staters had no authority or jurisdiction to take anyone.

Assistant Solicitor Harrison Bell said the charges of kidnapping against the men are based on South Carolina law, which says in part that no one can act as a bondsman unless they're properly licensed.

Defense attorneys Virgin Johnson and Corey Williams, representing Newkirk, and Sen. Basil Hutto, representing Samuel, argued that state law doesn't specifically address out-of-state bondsmen.

"There's no way it's kidnapping," Johnson said. "What should be happening is an apology. Everyone makes mistakes, they need to

See SUSPECTS, A5

Haley signs bill that could bring $1B to S.C. roads

By JEFFREY COLLINS
Associated Press

COLUMBIA — After years of being left out of the state's spending plans for its extra revenue, South Carolina's is not enough. But it is a great step in the right direction. I am a half-full guy, not a half-empty guy," DOT Director Robert St. Orge said.

Haley said people need to concentrate on what has been done instead

U.S. urges nations to return Snowden

Jeff Taillon

(803) 734-5129|Direct Line

(803) 767-7653|Cell