WELCOME TO SMART CITIES NOW

Updates on smart city progress around the globe

NEWS & TRENDS

LED streetlights for $1? For years, cities have been finding that their investments in energy-efficient LED streetlights have been paying off. But now, some cities are getting the lights for just $1 each. Learn how Andover, Massachusetts became one of them. MORE >>

City websites hacked: Philadelphia's city council has something in common with the town court in Clarksville, Indiana and the Howrah City Police in West Bengal, India. Add New York City and Napa, CA to the list, too. They've all been victims of cyberattacks. Get details and resources at the site -- including defensive strategies your city should consider before it's too late. MORE >>

See the Internet of Everything in action at Smart Cities Week

Reserve your spot at Smart Cities Week, coming to Washington, D.C. Sept. 15-17, where you'll get up close and personal with exciting technologies that will define tomorrow's cities. For example, Cisco will demonstrate how the Internet of Everything connects citizens and communities. Featured solutions will highlight urban services -- public safety, Wi-Fi, smart lighting and more. Don't miss it! Register today >>

PILOTS & PROJECTS

Driverless cars on digital highways: Cambridge University has ambitious plans to become part of a new smart city while serving as a proving ground for the next generation of transportation. Get a preview of what UK streets could soon look like. MORE >>

POINT OF VIEW

Are Asia's smart cities doing it right? Cities worldwide are working to bend technology to create efficient, prosperous and livable smart cities that will meet growing demands for services and accommodate rapidly growing populations. Asia is no different, with one glaring exception: the needs and challenges may not be quite the same as they are elsewhere. Find out why. MORE >>
